

Says

Thinks

Sustainable agricultural operations and farming practices yield positive impacts on the environment, animals, and people.

To improve agricultural production in India.

Agriculture is helps sustain life by providing the food we need to survive.

Agriculture is also a business that provides the global economy with commodities.

To implement the newest technological solution in agriculture.

To prepare students for employment in the agricultural sector.

USER

In farming practices and other aspects of agriculture can take up resources and time.

Every day, the food we eat connects us to a vast global web of farmers, traders, food manufactures, retailers and many other people involved in getting food from farm to fork.

Farmers often have to carry their produce from the farm to local markets on foot or by bicycle, which can be challenging and time-consuming.

The problems faced by farmers are typically unnoticed in the food industry.

Farmer's cropping decisions and their choices not to leave farms unguarded to visit markets reflect their security concerns.

Migori farms are not well-secured by fences or other means, and opportunistic theft from within villages is a salient perceived fear.

Does

Feels

